CONNECTING ENTREPRENEURS WITH EVERY AVAILABLE RESOURCE

Wyoming has the unique ability and extensive resources available to serve entrepreneurs in all stages of their ventures. We, who are in positions of economic leadership, know that entrepreneurial needs are unique and ever-changing. With that knowledge, the University of Wyoming is proud to have the Wyoming SBDC Network as part of its entrepreneurial outreach efforts. Their small business advising, training, and technical assistance will continue to provide important support to small business owners, as well as integrated support through the Wyoming Innovation Partnership, UW's Center for Entrepreneurship and Innovation, and other state business resource partners.

The efforts of the Wyoming SBDC Network have shown to be vital in supporting entrepreneurs in new, emerging, and existing state industries. The SBDC Network, along with other Business Resource Network partners such as IMPACT 307 and Manufacturing Works, support a holistic approach to serving Wyoming's entrepreneurs.

This report is evidence of the impact the Wyoming SBDC Network has on entrepreneurs and the state's economy. As the demands of small business owners in our state continue to change, the Wyoming SBDC Network has adapted by offering new services targeted to address identified needs. The Office of Research and Economic Development at the University of Wyoming is looking forward to another year of working with the Wyoming SBDC Network and its stakeholders, including the Wyoming Business Council, the U.S. Small Business Administration, and local communities.

Message From the University Of Wyoming

A Message from the State Director

Wyoming Entrepreneurs are resilient and continue to be a main pillar of Wyoming's economy. In 2022, 98.9% of all Wyoming businesses were designated as small businesses and provided jobs for 64.1% of all employees in the state, a slight increase from 2021, according to the U.S. Small Business Administration Office of Advocacy.

It is vital that Wyoming small businesses have adequate resources and support to continue to thrive and grow. That's where the Wyoming SBDC Network team of expert business advisors come in. The SBDC Network team works hard to ensure our services remain relevant, supportive, and impactful. Our mission remains the same: helping entrepreneurs succeed while providing measurable impact to Wyoming's economy.

We continue to seek resources that support our efforts to keep Wyoming's small business and economy strong. We work closely with stakeholders, funding partners (University of Wyoming, Wyoming Business Council, and the U.S. Small Business Administration), and other Business Resource Network entities to holistically support Wyoming's entrepreneurs.

The following pages will demonstrate how our services, through various programs, support Wyoming's economy. Our services are tailored to each individual's needs and SBDC Network advisors ensure each individual is connected to appropriate resources.

As we move into 2023, the Wyoming SBDC Network remains optimistic that streamlined efforts with other state resources will benefit small business owners greatly.

Help us celebrate our success by perusing the impact metrics, client testimonials, and success stories within this report and to contact me or your community's Wyoming SBDC Network regional director to learn more about our efforts. We thank Wyoming's legislature for supporting some of Wyoming's hardest working individuals by supporting the Wyoming SBDC Network and the Business Resource Network overall.

We look forward to a prosperous 2023,

Our Impact

Capital Infusion

Proven Impact to Wyoming's Economy Since 1994

In the last 28 years, the Wyoming SBDC Network has added $317.8 million to Wyoming's economy through capital infusion alone (not counting government contracts, SBIR/STTR awards, tax generation, client sales growth, etc.).

Looking solely at the 2022 fiscal year, every $1 invested by the State of Wyoming in the Wyoming SBDC Network returned $8.34 to the state's economy through capital infusion.

Additionally, our government contracting services last year helped Wyoming small businesses successfully compete for federal, state, and local contracts worth over $98 million.

Our Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) and Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) assistance also led to $429,284 in awards from the state's Phase 0/00 program and federal Phase I/II programs.

The Standard For Reliable Reporting

The Wyoming SBDC Network is meticulous in its record keeping to ensure that our numbers are accurate, our impact is meaningful, and that our funds lead to the best possible impact for the state. In fact, in its most recent review of all 52 federal entrepreneurial assistance programs, the U.S. Government Accountability Office listed SBDCs as the standard for all other organizations to follow. Additionally, our impact must be attributed to us directly by our clients in order to maintain our National Accreditation certification.

Total Capital Infusion	$5,349,420
Government Contracts	$98,229,108
SBIR/STTR Grants & Contracts	$429,284

For every $1 invested by the State of Wyoming in the Wyoming SBDC Network, $8.34 is returned through capital infusion.

Jobs Supported

Jobs Created

This is the number of new employees our clients say they have hired in FY22 thanks to support from the Wyoming SBDC Network.

Jobs Saved

Wyoming SBDC Network clients say they would have lost 26 jobs in FY22 if it weren't for the assistance from our advisors.

Jobs Supported

2,412

This metric includes the number of employees in a business while working with the Wyoming SBDC Network. SBA requires the tracking of this number to demonstrate ultimately how many jobs our services support indirectly.

PTAC Jobs Supported

In addition to the numbers above, the U.S. Defense Logistics Agency estimates 1,963 jobs were created or retained as a result of the more than $98 million our clients received through state, local, and federal government contracts in FY22.

Annual Goals

Annual goals for the Wyoming SBDC Network are set by the U.S. Small Business Administration based on our state's population share.

Our Impact

While capital infusion goals were not met in 2022, we attribute that drop off to the huge amount of capital infusion we accomplished in 2020. Businesses recieved a record amount of capital at that time and are now starting the process of paying on that capital in 2022.

Sub Programs

CARES Program Final Impact

September 30, 2022 marked the conclusion of the Wyoming SBDC Network CARES Act Recovery Program (CARES). The CARES program provided Wyoming businesses affected by the COVID-19 pandemic with an expansive variety of educational resources, industry specific advising, equipment access opportunities, and much more.

Key initiatives of the CARES Act Recovery Program included the following:

- The Web Development Assistance Program completed 106 client projects and used 66 unique developers to do so. The majority of those developers were Wyoming small business owners.
- Provided 3,007 attendees with a catalog of 108 virtual training events. The majority of those training sessions were recorded and are available on demand at WyomingSBDC.org/Recordings.
- Created Shop Wyoming, Wyoming's only statewide e-commerce site (accessible at ShopWyoming.com). At the conclusion of the CARES program Shop Wyoming hosted 113 active businesses and will continue to enrich the e-commerce landscape of Wyoming small business through 2024.
- Implemented the Business Resource Locator tool, accessible at WyomingBusinessResources.org.
- Lent professional photography, videography, and pod casting equipment to Library 2 Business programs across the state.

Portable Assistance Grant

The Wyoming SBDC Network continued to administer the SBA funded Portable Assistance Program (PAP) during the program period. The goal of the PAP is to provide targeted advising and technical assistance to address a specific negative economic condition in a targeted geographic area. The downturn of energy extraction revenues and business activities in primarily central and northeast Wyoming in 2020 influenced the SBDC Network's decision to seek funding from SBA to administer the PAP Program.

Although PAP funds are modest, we have realized significant impact through the work of our advisors in the affected areas. Advisors have worked with current energy sector employees seeking to exit their current employment situation and become entrepreneurs. We have also advised former energy sector employees looking to start their own businesses. Additionally, we have assisted entrepreneurs who seek to start specialized businesses to serve energy sector companies.

During the program period, our advisors worked with 37 unique energy sector-related entrepreneurs. As a result, there were three new business starts among those clients, five jobs created, and $30,000 in capital formation realized. In addition to advising, our Market Research Center provided 40 hours of consultation and market research for clients related to PAP. Although the impact in terms of business starts and jobs created may seem modest, SBDC strongly believes that every business and job created in Wyoming is of great value to not only the overall economy but are of extreme value to the individuals involved in creating them.

Community Navigator Pilot Program

The Wyoming SBDC Network received a $2.5 million grant to implement the SBA's Community Navigator Pilot Program (CNP Program) in Wyoming. The goal of the Community Navigator Pilot Program is to reduce barriers that all small businesses, including those owned by traditionally underserved groups such as veterans, women, and those from rural communities and communities of color, often face in accessing critical support.

The (CNP)CNP Program utilizes a "hub and spoke" model. Grantee "hubs" — such as the Wyoming SBDC Network — serve as centralized, lead organizations and incorporate "spokes" to leverage partnerships with deeply trusted existing state-based or community-based organizations to help small businesses navigate and tap into critical business resources.

Wyoming's "spokes" include:

- University of Wyoming Extension
- Wyoming Women's Business Center
- Wind River Development Fund
- Wyoming Smart Capital Network
- The Local Crowd
- Laramie County Library System (Library 2 Business)

Based on conversations with entrepreneurs across the state, Community Navigator Pilot Program leadership has determined that one common barrier for new businesses is affording professional business service providers, like accountants and lawyers, and subscriptions to software to help with things such as bookkeeping and graphic design. Year two of the Community Navigator Pilot Program will be focused on providing opportunities to engage these services and connecting diverse entrepreneurs with local resources to help them think big even if they are starting small.

Chronicles Distilling

Client Highlights

Chronicles Distilling is a Veteran Owned small business started by former infantry Marines and brothers, Aaron and Chase Leshner. Located in the Asher building in historic downtown Cheyenne Wyoming, Chronicles Distilling produces uniquely flavored whiskey and vodka that are distilled in house. Spirits are available for sale in bottles and as cocktails in their barroom on the main level.

One glance around the rich barroom will make it clear that the Leshner's have put every bit of themselves into their business and the building upgrades. All of the equipment, furniture, bar and sign was designed and built by the brothers.

After two and a half years of complex preparation and hard work building their business, the doors to Chronicles Distilling opened on July 19th, 2019. Per the advice of their Wyoming SBDC Network advisor, John Privette, the brothers opted to put in a lot of hard work and labor to reduce their business's start-up costs.

"We were able to get the proper direction in which to head in starting our business, with as little debt as possible. This has allowed us to grow quicker than we ever could have with a loan because we reinvest 95% of the money we earn back into the company. Had we taken a larger loan, a very large chunk of our earnings would have been wasted towards payments instead of growth," said Chase Leshner.

Chronicles Distilling started out on a strong note but was stifled by the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020. Local AM radio station KGAB reported that the barroom was closed from March 2020 to May 2021 and expressed relief when they were finally allowed to start slingin' drinks once again,

"Today will be a good day and we'll now be able to enjoy a nice locally made beverage from Chronicles Distilling."

Chronicles Distilling continued to sell bottled liquor during their barroom closure and picked right back up with their barroom sales as soon as they were able. As active members in the greater Cheyenne community, it is no surprise that they were named Small Business of the Year in 2022 by the Greater Cheyenne Chamber of Commerce.

Pizza Carrello

Pizza Carrello first began as a meager homemade food cart in 2011. They set up their cart on street corners, business parking lots, parks, and at special events. As the business grew, Pizza Carrello scaled its business up from a food cart to a 7,000sq ft restaurant that seats 140 customers in Gillette, WY. In 2022, the business continues to grow as they are currently undergoing a remodel that would add dozens of seats and a more streamlined kitchen operation.

Pizza Carrello LLC is a full-service wood-fired restaurant and bar serving Gillette, WY, and the surrounding area. They currently operate Tuesday-Sunday with brunch offered on Sundays. The focus of the entire organization is the art of wood-fired oven cuisine including pizzas, artisan bread, made-from-scratch pasta, appetizers, salads, wraps, desserts, and more. The restaurant features a 14-seat bar complete with 20 taps that serve many Wyoming beers at any given time. They also serve Wyoming Spirits, and craft cocktails, and offer a small rotating wine selection. Pizza Carrello also provides a variety of catering services, full bar catering, and special event partnerships.

Ariane Jimison is co-owner and chef at Pizza Carrello. Jimison and her partner, Rachel Kalenberg, started their company with only $400 in startup funds and built every aspect of the business from the ground up. From logo design and marketing campaigns to building the first wood oven pizza trailer, as well as creating their original recipes.

The extensive growth that Pizza Carrello has gone through can be fully attributed to the endless hard work that founders Ariane and Rachel have put into their business. They have used Wyoming SBDC Network services to help them secure SBA loans and COVID-19 relief funding as well as organize their growth and management plans. They have been long-time attendees and beneficiaries of our one-on-one advising services and the Wyoming SBDC Network's diverse training and workshop offerings. They have been met with extensive challenges, as many small business owners have experienced in the last few years, but they have faced each challenge with resolve and determination to conquer and succeed.

In addition to providing the Gillette area with incredible cuisine, Ariane and Rachel have volunteered their time over the years to help facilitate growth in their own employees and in organizations in the Gillette community.

Some examples of their extensive work in the community and as leaders in their business include Ariane offering tours and pizza-making demonstrations for at-risk youth and talking with them about the power of their choices, facilitating a mini leadership class with a group of students from the YES House, facilitating a Leadership Book Club with their managers, creating goal setting sessions with their employees to help each of them reach their personal and professional goals, and offering budgeting classes for employees to learn how to manage their own finances more effectively.

Aspen House Restaurant

The Aspen House Restaurant, in business since 1995, is known for its fusion of Singaporean and Western cuisine. The Aspen House Restaurant's unique dishes are only one part of the allure. The Dircks also pay homage to their community by preserving their location's deep ties to Wyoming history. Recently, owners Lena and Jim Dirck received a prestigious award for pulling off what many business experts would think impossible.

The Aspen House Restaurant worked to make a name for itself as one of Rawlins' top restaurants for years. Two days into 2019, a burst pipe caused major damage throughout the 114-year-old building. The entire rebuilding process took about nine months. Then, just three months after reopening its doors, Lena and Jim started to notice a slowdown in customers due to the recent arrival of COVID-19. Facing a double-whammy of setbacks that almost no other restaurant like theirs has seen, the couple decided to reach out to the Wyoming Small Business Development Center (SBDC) Network for help.

The Dircks' had enough capital to pay their employees for two months and met with Wyoming SBDC Network Regional Director Jim Drever to find solutions. Before there were federal aid options for businesses affected by COVID-19, Lena and Jim took Drever's advice and began looking at financing options to ensure that their staff continued to receive paychecks. Drever suggested some changes to their marketing efforts and pivoting to new strategies such as offering carry-out orders and meal kits that could be cooked at home. Just a few days later, the CARES Act was signed into law. Lena and Jim reached back out to the Wyoming SBDC Network for assistance in applying for an Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) and the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP). For both of these programs, aid amounts were based on 2019 incomes — which were already reduced due to being shut down for repairs after the pipe leak. The EIDL and PPP aid still provided much-needed help just in time.

In an SBDC Network Advisory meeting Lena had the following to say about the services her business received, "Without the grants and loans from the SBA, we wouldn't have been able to survive. We were really afraid that we were going to have to close our doors, but with Jim's help and the SBA funds we were able to pull through."

When the Aspen House was allowed to reopen their doors for dine-in customers, they took advantage of the building's unique layout. Dining tables could be placed far enough away from each other to maintain safe social distancing and the various nooks and crannies of the building allowed for some groups to dine in private rooms.

The Dircks' dedication to their restaurant and commitment to their employees and community is why Drever chose to nominate them for the U.S. Small Business Administration's (SBA) Small Business Person of the Year award in 2022.

"Lena and Jim really exemplified what it means to be a Wyoming entrepreneurs during the pandemic," Drever said. "They dealt a one-two punch with the flood and the COVID-19 pandemic. To not only stay in business, but to keep all their employees on staff — it truly is admirable what they've done."

To be named a Small Business Person of the year, a nominee must show growth in revenue and employees, demonstrate resiliency and staying power, and be valuable contributors to their community. So in April of 2022, it was no surprise to Drever that Lena Dirck was announced as the winner of this prestigious title in Wyoming.

"It's an honor to be selected as Small Business Person of the Year, and I'm very thankful for the SBA, the Wyoming SBDC Network, my husband, and our wonderful team here," Lena said. "We've been through a lot over the past few years, but we continue to work hard and are proud to have the support of the Rawlins community and patrons from across the country."

Wyonics LLC

Wyonics LLC, a women-owned small business in Laramie Wyoming, was selected to receive a nearly $1.2 million dollar Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) Phase II award from the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) to further the development and commercialization of instrumentation platforms for the nondestructive manipulation and analysis of micro- and nano-sized materials.

According to DOE, less than 5% of their SBIR Phase II awards go to women-owned small businesses. "While these awards are selected based on technical merit and commercial potential, we are particularly proud to be one of the few women-owned small businesses receiving funding in this round," said Dr. Kristin Di Bona, CEO and Co-Founder of Wyonics LLC. Wyonics is the first women-owned small business in the State of Wyoming to receive a DOE SBIR award and the third Wyoming-based business to receive a Phase II.

The project, led by Dr. Di Bona, will further the product development and commercialization of a particle manipulation and analysis platform demonstrated in Phase I, with exciting applications in nuclear forensics. "We will be able to move and analyze really small micro and nano particles," said Di Bona. "This technology is widely applicable to the semiconductor industry, nuclear forensics, microelectronics, pharmaceuticals, and other future industries. Wyonics' platform allows tiny particles with sub-mm scale dimensions to be identified and collected in a non-destructive, non-contaminating manner."

Wyonics' specific goals for the Phase II grant are to develop a commercial prototype for their micro-manipulator platform that can "work with smaller particles in a cleaner fashion than other technologies being developed or on the market, and test applicability for nuclear forensic applications" said Di Bona.

Additionally, during the Phase II work, the team at Wyonics will explore if the technology can be used for the separation of micro and nanoplastic particles. "These particles are formed through the degradation of consumer, commercial, and industrial products," said Di Bona, "and may pose human health and environmental risks." Wyonics anticipates the platform will assist with the separation and characterization of these plastic particles which is of interest to the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

The two-year DOE Phase II grant begins August of 2022, and ends in August of 2024. The SBIR project will support one new employee plus two existing employees at Wyonics. "We plan to hire an additional scientific technician soon to work in the Laramie office," said Di Bona, "and work with the University of Wyoming to support students involved on the project." Wyonics LLC has partnered with Dr. Caleb Hill, an associate professor in the University of Wyoming (UW) Department of Chemistry and a co-founder of Wyonics LLC. A $200,000 subaward to UW will employ two to three undergraduate students and one graduate student to pursue some of the project's technical goals.

Wyonics Phase I and Phase II proposals were supported with Wyoming Phase 0/00 $5,000 awards from the Wyoming SBDC Network's WSSI program. Additionally, Wyonics applied for and received $100,000 SBIR Matching Funds from the Wyoming Business Council, the State's economic development agency, for the Phase I award and will apply for up to $200,000 SBIR Matching Funds for the Phase II. "Economic development programs here in Wyoming have been critical to the initial success of this project. It has enabled us to continue product development and commercialization activities during gaps in federal funding, support Wyoming-based personnel, and protect our intellectual property," said DiBona.

Teton Lunch Counter

Teton Lunch Counter, located in Jackson WY, may be new to the small business scene, first launching in the Spring of 2022, but in their brief time in business, they have made an immense impact on their community. Teton Lunch Counter is a small, women-owned business, and is Jackson Hole's only package & waste-free prepared foods provider, exclusively serving the Outdoor Guide & Outfitting Industry of Teton County. Their mission is to reduce the tourism footprint and provide tourists with only the freshest meats and seasonal vegetables from local farmers, ranchers, and small businesses. Teton Lunch Counter serves their lunches in reusable stainless steel, durable, and lightweight Bento lunch box containers. With sustainability at the forefront of the business, Teton Lunch Counter sources as much of its ingredients and meal components from other local businesses and with their reusable lunch containers have successfully kept over 20,000 single-use containers out of the landfill.

Founder, Victoria (Tori) Parker is a Sustainable Energy Development Practitioner with a Masters in Mechanical Engineering. She has 7 years of experience within the built environment, namely commercial Net-Zero builds & Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy. She is an aspiring chef & student of holistic nutrition culinary. After a successful first season with Teton Lunch Counter, Parker can now add 'burgeoning sustainability entrepreneur' to her impressive resume of accomplishments.

Teton Lunch Counter has been utilizing the help of their Wyoming SBDC Network advisor, Audie Cunningham, since the start of their venture, first to develop an initial business plan and now to create a more in-depth plan for year two of business. The Wyoming SBDC Network has advised Teton Lunch Counter on potential funding options for growth plans.

"The Teton Lunch Counter grew their client list and quickly discovered demand for her services and food in Teton County. Because of the success of her first season, Tori [Victoria Parker] is planning on hiring one more employee next year. This will allow her to take on a few new clients – of which she has a bit of a waiting list. Though Tori could take on much more and hire more employees she is also looking at her business strategy and is aware that slow and steady growth is best for Teton Lunch Counter. She always has her eye on sustainability and impact," said Cunningham.

On growing the business in 2023, founder Victoria Parker says, "We will implement new efficiencies to combat high expenses and can take on another part-time employee so that we can also take on a few new clients. It is expected that we will increase sales in the summer season of 2023."
